

DR. SAL MARTINGANO

SPEAKER | AUTHOR | EDUCATOR | ITALIAN FROM BROOKLYN

“My mission is to enlighten, empower, and entertain minds of all ages on the complex world of politics- using:

Lessons Learned From Our Past to inspire
Thoughtful Conversations About Our Future.

After all, Words Have Meaning, and education is the key to understanding those ever-changing words in today's society and political environment.”

Sal Martingano

BIO

Dr. Sal is an avid historian who believes that “Words Have Meaning” and that education is the key to understanding the political environment of today’s society.

His latest book: “The Declaration of Dependence”, empowers and entertains minds of all ages on the complex world of politics and inspires thoughtful conversation on our “American Dream”.

INSPIRATIONAL SPEAKER

Failure is a part of the success process, since one can never appreciate success unless you experience the lessons of failure. As a first wave baby boomer, without the benefits of modern technology, “trying” was not an option. Success depended on mastering the “doing”, and second chances were rare. Dr. Sal was mentored by great motivational speakers allowing him to bring that “can do” spirit into every speaking engagement- leaving his audiences uplifted with that one special message they may not have considered. Whether speaking at schools, conferences, book signings, or political events, his message is his passion.

EDUCATOR

“When the student is ready, the teacher appears” is a favorite saying of Dr. Sal. A doctor is the highest level of achievement in a specialized area of expertise and is the Latin derivative for “teacher”. As a doctor, Sal is an educator with the unique ability to make the complex easy to understand. With over 40 years of combined teaching experience, Dr. Sal is a sought-after motivational speaker for continuing education and community organizations large or small. He is an avid historian, researcher and author with topics ranging from healthcare to politics; “It is more important to teach people HOW to think independently, rather than WHAT to think collectively.” Dr. Sal is a refreshing, entertaining, informative and engaging speaker.

AUTHOR

Dr. Sal’s first book, “The Declaration of Dependence... A Betrayal of the American Dream” is designed to speak to the casually informed citizens of our country. The book is not designed as a “text” but instead, a reference guide to the current political and constitutional challenges we now face. The book details “Media and the Government”- unraveling the complex and often intentionally confusing terminology in today’s political landscape. One no longer needs to be a Political Science major to interpret the massive changes taking place in America. Dr. Sal also provides needed solutions for better decision making.

Dr. Sal’s second book, “Boys of Brooklyn... A Time When Life Never Sucked” is a tribute to the baby boomer generation, based on actual experiences with five life-long “boomer” friends growing up in Brooklyn, New York. The book is filled with real experiences that will make you laugh out loud or cringe at the inevitable tragedies we faced. This book is “playwright” material for the entire family to enjoy.

ITALIAN FROM BROOKLYN

As a card-carrying Italian baby boomer from Bensonhurst Brooklyn, Dr. Sal experienced American life as it was meant to be; raw, exciting and filled with adventure. Being allowed to fail without ridicule allowed for developing educational and economic successes, based on self-reliance and strong family bonds; traits disappearing in today’s America. Brooklyn was the home of many celebrities like: Mel Brooks, Adam Sandler, Joan Rivers, Eddie Murphy, Woody Allen, Jerry Seinfeld, Dom DeLuise, Buddy Hackett just to name a few. Yes, Brooklyn also produced some of better-known Italian names like the Gambino, Genovese, Lucchese and Bonanno crime families but hey, it also produced “this” Italian from Brooklyn.

REVIEWS

“In his book: The Declaration of Dependence, A Betrayal of the American Dream, Dr. Martingano looks at the history of the U.S. and its current state of affairs, provides thought-provoking ideas on where we may have gone wrong, and unlike many others, suggests solutions to his ideas with supporting references.

Dr. Martingano challenges values that Americans hold as true today and shows how our government is intentionally and incrementally taking away our freedoms by circumventing the Constitution. No stones are left unturned with respect to today’s media and government, so that all Americans are empowered to make better political decisions- ensuring that we retain our freedoms.”

Jack M. Bourla | Chairman of the Board - IFCO

“Dr. Sal Martingano’s book is a refreshing reminder of the importance of our constitution and an unfortunate showcase of how far we as a nation have drifted from its original intent. He holds nothing back in critiquing the missteps of our leaders, our media and even the complacency of American citizens that have led us deeper into progressive ideals that are threatening to undermine the liberties that made us great.

I recommend this book for anyone interested in making sure America doesn’t fall into the socialist trap and progressive ideals that are wreaking havoc on much of Europe.”

Andrew Dexter | Executive Vice President - Dexter & Associates

“This book is a straight forward, strategic message about how America has devolved, but also how to restore America by shoring up its time proven foundations.”

Brad Dacus, Esq.
President - Pacific Justice Institute

“An eye-opening, timely, and thoroughly-researched book with a refreshing, courageous writing style. Thank you Dr. Martingano.”
