Dr. Sal Martingano

Dr. Sal Martingano is a featured motivational speaker, educator, and author. His career has taken him from teaching industrial arts in high school and college classrooms to becoming a leading Doctor of Chiropractic. He continues his educational expertise with 21 years of radio and cable TV broadcasting and has authored numerous health and wellness articles.

Dr. Sal is an avid historian who believes that “Words Have Meaning” and that education is the key to understanding the political environment of today’s society. His latest book: “America’s Democracy Betrayed: Solutions To Fight Back”, empowers and entertains minds of all ages on the complex world of politics, and inspires thoughtful conversation on our “American Dream”.

Sal’s book: “Boys of Brooklyn: A Time When Life Never Sucked” reflects on the exciting memoirs of life as a first wave Italian baby boomer from Brooklyn, and shows how the lessons learned from that era are now more relevant than ever.
